

Kiwanians Enjoy Canoe Picnic

TRIP DOWN AU SABLE AND DINNER AT EDGEWATER

The members of the Kiwanis club and their ladies and a few friends enjoyed one of the finest affairs in the history of the club Sunday when a canoe carnival down the AuSable river and dinner were held.

Cars were transported early in the morning to Edgewater Beach, while at about 10:00 a.m. canoe loads were launched at the bridge in Grayling for their journey down the river. While the distance from Grayling to Edgewater is only about 8½ miles by highway, by river it is about three times that distance.

The morning air was slightly chill but a peeping sun soon modified the temperature, and it turned out to be one of the most delightful days of the season. About 40 made the trip. Most of the canoes were manned by professional guides while others managed very well to pilot their own canoes. With few exceptions all arrived at Edgewater without a spill after a most delightful journey.

A half-way stop was made by a few at Burton's Landing where sandwiches were enjoyed, before resuming the journey. Dr. Keyport, who with his family occupied the head canoe, plied the rod during the entire trip, landing a few rainbows. Other boats strung along at close intervals, the occupants enjoying the ride and the marvelous scenery that only the AuSable river offers. Gorgeous pines and cedars lined the banks of the river, broken only by rushing rivulets that entered the big AuSable system.

Beautiful settings of all colors of flowers peeked thru the dense fringe of trees that lined the banks, with Michigan holly, the berries just nicely turning to red, jutting out from the banks. Whenever the openings between trees permitted, scenes of wild turmoil among the various vegetations that area so profusely affords met the view of the voyagers, while from the brush and tree tops came the songs, screams and calls of an almost endless variety of birds, waterfowl and animals. And a few deer that dared brave a close-up of the canoeing parties peered out from the river banks.

The grand old AuSable was splendid in its multitude of moods. From placid areas one's canoe would glide into swift and turbulent places that kept the paddler on his metal to conquer its tricky swirls and rushes. From wide areas the stream would at times narrow down to narrow places where water rushed swiftly around sharp bends and kept the pilot busy keeping his canoe away from the sweepers that lay low from the banks, ready to sweep the boat occupants from their comfortable, cushioned seats.

The very challenge of the river added to the thrill of the down-river canoe trip, and is a part of this glorious venture. Beauty everywhere, thrills, schools of whopper rainbow trout that scurry from deep holes when boats appear, the ever fascinating grandeur of the trees, beautiful wild flowers and shrubbery, the intense stillness broken only by the dip of the paddle and songs and calls of birds and wild life—it is all very entrancing. Comfortable summer homes appeared at occasional intervals, and an occasional fisherman, waist-deep in the water, with line drawn to one side would wait until the caravan of canoes passed by and, we presume, would wonder what it was all about.

Such an occasion is not without its humorous incidents. As this writer and his family shoved off from the dock everyone predicted a spill and a good ducking for the occupants of the canoe, and to make matters worse the canoe was hung up on the bank before rounding the bend and out of sight of the crowd at the dock. But soon the feel of the paddle and a little experience in guiding made everything fine and there were no spills and no duckings from that canoe.

John Bruun pulled a smart idea when he coupled two canoes side by side, with a motor set between and all that was necessary was to handle the rudder. With him were Miss Jane Robbin and Mr. Mortenson of Louisville, Ky., and Roy Trudgen.

Mrs. Harold Cliff found the water plenty wet at the bottom of the river. Also Holger Peterson dipped up some of the river.

A few kinks in the legs and back from sitting in a canoe for about four hours were soon limbered up when a couple of soft ball teams were organized, the five inning period ending in five runs each. The ground was soft and rough and every attempt at catching a fly ball meant a spill, and Dr. Steely usually took a back sommersault but he hung on to the ball.

The dinner bell told that tables were set and chicken ready to serve. What a dinner it was! Everyone did justice to a very enjoyable feast. Tables were set in the house and on the front porch.

"Washboard", colored servant at McClanahan's lodge, and radio star, entertained during the dinner with a program of vocal numbers, he playing his own accompaniment on a guitar. He is a very clever entertainer and added to the pleasure of the occasion.

More soft ball after the dinner and the departure of members at their pleasure, ended the festivities of a most delightful event.

Work Progressing On Sewage Disposal Plant

Work on the new sewage disposal plant is progressing very nicely and it is hoped to have it ready for operation by sometime in October.

Considerable trouble has been experienced from shallow water, this, however, has been well overcome. The sludge bed section is in the low land and pumps had to be constantly in use in order to keep the ground free enough from water in order to pour the cement floors.

Already completed are the digestor, coronator, boiler house, sludge beds, and sedimentation tank. City Manager George Granger says the plant is from 65 to 70% finished and will probably be put into operation sometime in October.

IRA LEONARD PASSED AWAY

Ira A. Leonard, age 53 years, a resident of Grayling since 1903, passed away at his home suddenly, early Monday morning, the cause of death being given out as apoplexy. Mr. Leonard seemed to be in his usual health on retiring Sunday evening and so his passing came as a shock to his family and friends.

Ira Leonard was born near Sanilac, Mich. He with his parents—the late Mr. and Mrs. John Leonard, came to Grayling from Waters and this place had been his home since, except for a few years spent in Flint. He worked for Salling Hanson company when they were in operation and for other firms here.

The funeral was held Wednesday afternoon with services at the Sorenson funeral chapel with interment in Elmwood cemetery. Among those from out of town in attendance at the funeral were the deceased's brother and wife, Mr. and Mrs. George H. Leonard, of Flint.

CARD OF THANKS

We wish to extend our sincere thanks to neighbors and friends for their kindness and sympathy in our late bereavement.

Mr. and Mrs. George H. Leonard and Relatives.

To Lay Post Office Corner-stone Soon

TO BE READY FOR USE BY CHRISTMAS

Progress has been so rapid in constructing Grayling's splendid new Post Office building that it is expected occupancy will occur about December first, or three months in advance of the time originally contemplated. The established and reliable builder, James I. Barnes, Inc., of Culver, Ind., under the superintendence of Thomas Bogardus has had no hindrances. This efficient organization together with ideal weather conditions has made exceptional work progress as is not the usual case in the building of post office structures throughout the U. S. The Barnes firm built the Boyne City Post Office building a few years ago and only recently finished Federal buildings at Garrett, Ind., St. Joseph, Mich., Escanaba, Michigan, and other such buildings are now under construction in Michigan and Indiana by this organization.

Plans for the laying of the corner-stone shortly is under the direction of Mayor George Burke. A brief program to commemorate the occasion will take place. Upon completion of the building in December a big dedication ceremony will occur and the program will include a parade, speeches, a banquet and a big ball. Nothing could be more appropriate because the construction of this fine new structure has been as predicted a stimulating effect to building and real estate in Grayling and as a result there has been more remodeling and building this year than ever before, and with the completion of the post office building a more attractive business street is to follow. Grayling is happy that proper initiative and very much hard work by the present post office administration accomplished an objective which Grayling has been seeking for years and which other communities of larger population and a higher post office classification are still seeking.

Jayne Keyport Wins
Handicap Turney

The handicap tournament played by the ladies of the Grayling Golf club ended last Saturday, with Miss Jayne Keyport winning out over Mrs. C. G. Clipper in the finals. A complete report of the tournament up to the finals appeared in last week's paper, and the thirty-six holes of the finals which were played off Friday and Saturday by Miss Keyport and Mrs. Clipper, proved to be very exciting with Miss Keyport coming out on top to be the 1937 Handicap Tournament Champion.

This is not the first glory in the way of golf to have come to the champ. In 1934 Miss Jayne sunk the putt to make her champion of the Championship tournament, as she did in 1935 in the Handicap tournament. Last year when she was an employee in the Dept. of State in Lansing, she was champion of the first flight of the State employee tournament held at the Indian Hills Golf Club.

Hail to the champion and congratulations.

CANNING WAGES INCREASE

One of the leading industries in Michigan—one which provides welcome spending money for thousands of families—is the canning industry.

When crops are good and money is plentiful, the canning factories hum with activity. Such is the case this year in Michigan, thanks to a bountiful season.

It is good news to everyone to hear that the average weekly wage for July was $16.64 this year, compared with $12.72 a year ago. George A. Krogstad,

Drum & Bugle Corps Invited To New York

IS ONE OF FIVE IN MICHIGAN TO GET INVITATION

WOULD REQUIRE $800 TO PAY EXPENSES

Grayling American Legion Drum and Bugle Corps is in receipt of a letter from the National Committee of the American Legion inviting them to participate in the national Legion convention parade to be held in New York City September 19, 20 and 21.

The invitation came Monday morning and was very much of a surprise inasmuch as the local Corps was not in attendance at the State Legion convention held in Detroit last week.

Grayling Drum and Bugle corps has a membership of 37, are attractively uniformed, have the very latest type of instruments and the musical training.

Wherever this organization goes it puts Grayling and Northern Michigan on the map. Under the leadership of Harold McNevea the members have acquired a high rank as musicians. Trained as they are in every phase necessary to high achievement, this organization is outstanding and their appearance in public draws most flattering applause.

Of course it will take money to send this corps of 37 men to

New York for three days. Nobody can expect the men to pay their own expenses, but we believe it will be well worth it to Crawford county and especially to Grayling if a fund can be raised sufficient to pay the cost of such a trip. It is estimated that the cost will amount to about $800. There are about three more weeks before the convention; in the meantime some plan may perhaps be devised for raising the amount of money necessary for sending the Grayling Corps to New York.

NEW GAME LAWS PUBLISHED

The first supply of the revised game laws digest for 1937-1938 has been received by the department of conservation from the state printer. A million copies are being printed and distributed of these together with the new hunting and trapping licenses to license agents will be started September 1.

COUNTY TREASURER'S OFFICE CLOSED FRIDAY AND SATURDAY

The local county treasurer's office will be closed Friday and Saturday of this week. However, Mr. Ferguson, treasurer announces that he will allow all next week for the collection of taxes for those who wish to take advantage of the ten-year plan. The scheduled deadline is Sept. 1st but he will give the extension of several days.

Capt. Bates Talks On Philippine Experience

WAS KIWANIS SPEAKER WEDNESDAY, ENROUTE TO UTAH

Capt. Russell E. Bates, just home from three year's service in the Philippines, was prevailed upon to stop over long enough to give a talk before the Kiwanis Club Wednesday.

He gave an interesting account of conditions he found in his army service in the Islands and also some sidelights pertaining to the Chinese-Japanese troubles.

His first assignment in the Islands was as commander of the fort of Drum Island. This is of solid rock hewn down to water's edge and built up in the form of a battleship. It has an area of 8-10ths of an acre and is occupied only by Army officers and army laborers. He considers Fort Drum as the strongest fortification in existence. This, he said, was very confining service as he seldom left the island often for two weeks. He gave a description of the fortifications.

Another assignment was as commander of the fort on Corregidor Island, and later as commander of an army vessel doing coastguard duty. His talk was very interesting and was given in a very pleasing manner.

Other guests present at the luncheon were H. W. Wolff, New York City, Charles Wylie of Olivet, Arthur Glidden of Gaylord and Attorney Miltner of Cadillac.

REV. FLORY LAST WEEK'S SPEAKER

The speaker last week was Rev. Edgar Flory of Michelson Memorial church. In the absence of a special speaker for the occasion he was induced to pinchhit and as usual had an excellent speech ready. An outline of his talk follows:

CHRISTENDOM ASSEMBLES

Eight hundred delegates and associates, representing ninety-three separate Christian communions, from thirty-three countries, assembled at Oxford, England recently.

Every large Christian body in the world was represented, except the Roman Catholic Church which declined to attend, and the German churches, which were not permitted by Hitler to send delegates.

This, we believe, was the first great world conference of its kind. It was an epoch-making event, because it was a sincere effort on the part of diverse Christian groups to face a common problem. That problem is the present world crisis, which threatens not only nations and

Lansing—Only five days remain for owners of nearly a half million Michigan farms, homes and vacant lots to save their property from being forfeited to the state for nonpayment of delinquent taxes.

Because of their reasonable needs, canning plants have been signalized from labor trouble. In contrast with their happy condition is the furniture industry which has experienced sagging employment and payrolls.

Slot Machines
While the state legislature has officially and legally adjourned, subject to a second special session in the Fall, several legislative committees remain at work. One of these is investigating the gambling industry in Michigan with the naive idea of finding out who is running it and how much graft is being paid for protection.

Hearings are being conducted in secrecy by Representatives Carl DeLano of Kalamazoo, a republican, and John Hamilton and Chester Fitzgerald of Detroit, both democrats.

The investigators declare that criminal action may be sought if evidence justifies. The legislators' dilemma is quite obvious. If the committee finds what it is looking for, it will have dynamite on its hands, for gamblers and politicians are likely to exert unusual pressure to block disastrous disclosures. If the committee finds no evidence, critics will suspect that pressure was applied successfully.

Representative Hamilton introduced a bill last spring to legalize gambling through a state licensing system.

Wages and Rates
In the legislature session, last spring, two lobbies pitted their strength against each other in seeking passage of bills affecting transportation in Michigan.

The railroads facing prospects of wage increases, sought legislation to protect them against the ever-increasing competition of motor trucks.

Motor truck people, organized into a well-functioning lobby, asked special legislation to rescue their business from what some leaders termed to be "impending bankruptcy."

Then came the threat of a nation-wide strike of railroad workers; a wage increase averted this. The truckers then demanded more wages under union conditions. A month's truce was effected.

Last week the state public utilities commission ordered a mandatory increase in freight rates for truck carriers. The higher rates may enable truck carriers to increase wages of divers, and the same rates may return some of the diverted business back to the railroads. Even Commissioner Glenwood of the state commission admits that the rate change is experimental.

Public Opinion

A JUST CRITICISM

Holly, Mich.

Aug. 16, 1937

Dear Sir:
One day last week I had the pleasure of standing on the bridge over the river in your beautiful little city and looking at the waters in the most beautiful and famous river in our fair State and a party with me remarked, "With such a wonderful river why would they put a sewer pipe here where everyone stopping can see the pollution running down the river?" I also wondered why.

Of course it is not my business but sometimes a stranger sees something from a different point of view than one who is used to them.

Just a Strange Friend.

While such criticisms are embarrassing, nevertheless the criticism is a just one. Just how this community has tolerated this condition for a half century is hard to explain. However we are happy to say that it won't be long now before our $40,000 sewage disposal plant will be in operation and pollution of this beautiful river will be over. Thanks to our enterprising city officials and the local citizens who are loyally supporting them in their endeavors to make Grayling a better city in which to live.—Editor.

JOHN SURDAY

John Surday who passed away at Lovells on August 16, was born June 27, 1888 in Streeter, Ill. In 1910 when he was 22 years of age, he entered the employ of T. E. Douglas as bookkeeper for the Douglas interests at Lovells which included their mill, store, hotel and later the North Branch Outing Club operated by the Douglas's on the North Branch of the AuSable.

He soon became the store manager in which capacity he continued to the day of his death. To the thousands of fishermen from all over the United States who fished the North Branch, Mr. Surday was affectionately known as "John." To them John was an intimate part of the place. Although he never wet a line or fired a gun, he was the confidant and advisor of hundreds of fishermen, tyros and experts. John would tell them where to fish and what fly to use. In his close contact with fishermen for many years he gathered fishing information and facts, that made him one of them. Many North Branch fly casters will miss John Surday.

The funeral was held Thursday afternoon at West Branch with many friends from Lovells in attendance. Rev. Edgar Flory officiated. Surviving the deceased are his mother and step-father Mr. and Mrs. George Dutko, of St. Helen; one brother Edward Dutko, of St. Helen, and five sisters Mrs. Martin Clemens and Mrs. Anna Spisak of Verdin, Ill.; Mrs. David Phibbs of Streeter, Ill.; Mrs. Dorothy Engel, West Branch and Mrs. Wm. Beckhold, Detroit.

AMERICAN BOY INTRODUCES A NEW FOOTBALL GAME

In the early fall issues of THE AMERICAN BOY there'll be presented the story of a new game—six-man football—fast as professional football, wide open as basketball, thrilling as hockey. The game came to life through the need of small schools for some substitute for 11-man football, which was too expensive. Stephen Epler, a Nebraska graduate student in athletics, developed the game of six-man football to meet this need. In six-man football anybody can score, the possibility of injury from mass plays is minimized, and the game is open enough for spectators to follow every exciting development.

The new game is a hit. New schools are taking it up every day. In coming issues of THE AMERICAN BOY tells the world about this practical new game. In addition, it presents The American Boy Official Handbook, which can be obtained from the magazine at 20 cents a copy, or 15 cents when bought in bulk.

NOTE: Subscription prices of THE AMERICAN BOY will be raised in the near future. Send your subscription order at once to take advantage of the bargain rates now in effect: one year at $1.00 or three years at $2.00. Foreign subscriptions 50c a year extra. Send your name, address and remittance to THE AMERICAN BOY, 7430 Second Blvd., Detroit, Mich. On newsstands the price is 15c a copy.

MAY CAN FRUITS WITHOUT SUGAR

Fruit canning in the midst of a bountiful Michigan harvest can be accomplished without the use of sugar until later use, but the fruit will not hold its color, shape or flavor as well.

This is an explanation prepared through the home economics extension service of Michigan State College.

Unsweetened canned fruit is useful in pie-making and also in the diet of persons who have diabetes. Juicy fruits should be canned in their own juices rather than with water, when no sugar is used.

The process is not difficult. A new wrinkle by those who have experimented with fruit canning is the idea of adding extra juice. Extract the juice from the riper fruits by crushing, heating and straining. Pack the remaining fruits closely into glass jars or tin cans without preheating and add enough boiling juice to cover. Partially seal the jars or exhaust and then seal tin cans.

A hot water bath is used then to process from 5 to 20 minutes depending on the density of the fruit. Another method is to pre-cook the fruit 2 to 4 minutes and then pour hot into containers, seal and process.

Less juicy fruits canned without sugar require water. These include apples, peaches and pears. Only the smallest amount of water necessary should be used, however, in order to keep the natural flavor of the fruit.

HUNTING LICENSE MUST BE PLAINLY LEGIBLE

The law has caught up with the deer hunters who smeared their license tags with mud or painted them upside down last fall.

A provision in the game bill which last year stated only that license tags be worn so as to be plainly "visible" has been corrected by the legislature. Deer hunters will be required by law this fall to wear their tags so as to be plainly "legible" as well as visible.

Friendly Encouragement

A friendly slap of encouragement on the shoulder, a little well-timed smile of approval, a cheerful look for a comrade when he slips—these are the inexpensive little things that get the important big results.

TRAFFIC MUST GO ON

In this age of automobiles, highways play an important part in the life of almost everyone. Four families out of five have motor cars of their own and the nearly thirty million cars in use today are enough to take the entire population of the nation for a ride all at one time. Michigan, as the automobile state, is also one of the foremost leaders in highway development. Its Department of Highways is one of the largest and most important branches of the state government.

Highway users, both state residents and out-of-state visitors, have come to expect safe, well-kept roads and are quick to censure conditions that cause inconvenience or discomfort. Since a multitude of construction and maintenance operations are necessary to provide satisfactory facilities for the motoring public, the state is faced with the problem of carrying on these operations in the most unobtrusive manner, with the least possible interruption or slowing up of traffic.

Relocations, highway widening, bridge construction, grade separations, new surfacing, maintenance and patching of existing surfaces, dustlaying, snow removal and ice control—all must be accomplished with minimum inconvenience to highway users.

The Michigan State Highway Department takes advantage of every known agent that will expedite and simplify construction and maintenance operations.

Before new construction is started, detours are carefully planned and, for the safety and comfort of motorists, are adequately treated with calcium chloride to eliminate dust. Construction operations, through the use of up-to-date machines and methods, progress at a rapid pace and are completed in remarkably short lengths of time. Maintenance, patching and blading is done at regular intervals, as needed, and with least possible inconvenience to traffic.

Moving vehicles rapidly accomplish the spreading of calcium chloride dustlayer, snow removal and application of ice control materials.

Twenty-four hours a day, three hundred and sixty-five days a year, the highway department is on the job, exercising every bit of efficiency, industry and ingenuity it can command. All because traffic—a steadily increasing amount of it—must go on.

Current rumor is that there will be hunting in the Hartwick Pines park next fall. This, says Mr. Lark, park superintendent, is not true. The original park containing 8,000 acres, is closed to hunting. Boundaries are carefully indicated so that there is no excuse for anyone to trespass for the purpose of hunting.

At noon the ladies joined the men in a picnic lunch at the Ernest Babbitt landing. Mr. Johnston is president of the Kansas City and Southern Railway.

The Hartwick Pines park is proving every day its attraction to the public. People come there from many states besides from Michigan and almost any day license tags from a dozen or more states may be seen parked near the Pines. The daily average of attendance is about 500. Last Sunday over 1,500 people visited the park. Already over 50,000 visitors have been registered this season. And people never tire going there. Here is an attraction that everyone who can possibly do so should see.

The Resettlement Administration's Rural Rehabilitation offices in Roscommon, Crawford, and Antrim counties, formerly located at Roscommon and Bellaire, have been merged with the Otsego County office and the supervision of loans will be taken over by Mr. Byron L. Braamse, former Otsego County Supervisor. His office is located in the Cook Building at Gaylord, Michigan.

Mr. Roswell G. Carr, the Resettlement Administration's State Director of Rural Rehabilitation, in commenting on the changes stated that this step will affect considerable savings in administrative costs during the coming year but will not seriously hamper the assistance now being rendered to needy low-income farm families in Michigan.

Because of the recent depression and drouths, nearly 10,000 farmers in Michigan who were having difficulty in obtaining and maintaining credit from the regular sources were provided financial aid through the Rural Rehabilitation Division.

Since the inception of the Rural Rehabilitation work in July, 1934, 161 farmers in these counties have borrowed funds for a five-year period with which to purchase livestock, feed, and equipment. "Emergency" loans with which to purchase feed were also made in designated "drouth" counties during 1934 and 1935.

Farmers in this area who have received Rural Rehabilitation loans will be able to contact Mr. Braamse at Gaylord, but because of the larger territory to be served by his office in the future, it is anticipated that many farmers will wish to make their loan repayments by mail. "This applies especially to those living at some distance from the office," Mr. Braamse said, "and we are prepared to accept any remittances received in this manner."

Public Opinion

August 25, 1937

Mr. O. P. Schumann
Editor, Crawford Avalanche
Grayling, Michigan

To criticize seems so easy—to express appreciation where deserved seems to be one thing that we are inclined to overlook. I wish to take this opportunity to express my personal appreciation to the Rube Babbitt Chapter of the Izaak Walton League for the business-like manner in which they handled the recent Canoe Carnival through their committee consisting of Ernest Borchers, Jack Redhead, Chris Hoesli, Harry Russell and Clara Madsen. It was apparent to all that this committee worked hard and gave unstintingly of their time and services, which should be appreciated by all Grayling citizens.

I wish also to comment on the policy adopted by the Izaak Walton League of making a public financial statement covering all civic projects that they sponsor. Such a policy cannot help but build up confidence amongst Grayling citizens, confidence that apparently has been wanting in the past through unbusinesslike methods of handling civic projects. Considering that the business men of Grayling were not asked to make donations toward the Canoe Carnival and the fact that adverse weather conditions in other parts of the State at that time helped to keep down the attendance, I consider it remarkable that the Carnival came out financially on the right side of the ledger and showed a small profit.

Dr. C. G. Clippert.

CCC Camp Doings

Counting Deer

Four areas, two within the Crawford State Game Refuge and two in public hunting areas, were "driven" by enrollees of CCC Camp Kalkaska last week to obtain a census of deer for the game division of the Department of Conservation. Foreman Harold Cliff was in charge of the drive, in which 118 CCC boys took part. More deer were counted within the Refuge areas than in the others, Cliff reported, and the deer were found to be in good physical condition.

Throughout the world at present Christians are seriously wondering about the relation of the church to the economic order. How can the Christian principle of cooperation be made to work in an economic order based upon competition? What word has the church to speak about the conflict between capital and labor between the profit and the service motives? The Christian religion places a supreme value upon human values. What is religion to say, then, when human values are made secondary to property values? These are some of the questions which the delegates in the group on "Church and the Economic Order" faced.

For many years the area of approximately 700 square miles has been a problem for forest fire officers, because smoke from fires there was hard to detect and harder to chart accurately from other towers. The new tower is located on a high hill near the "ghost" lumbering town of DeWard, west of Frederic. It is the new standard 100 foot steel tower with inside stairway.

Technical personnel and a few of the enrollees of CCC Camp AuSable witnessed an experiment in the use of tractor-driven "bulldozer" equipment in fighting forest fires in slash areas recently, through the co-operation of the Department of Conservation.

An area in the AuSable State Forest was chosen for the experiment. The bulldozer was used to move slash and to remove sod for a fireline, exposing mineral sand. Further development of the method is expected.

Foreman Joe Vance and a crew of CCC boys of Camp AuSable have been salvaging wildfall jack pine timber within the AuSable Forest from which lumber, poles, posts and fuel wood will be realized. Forester A. R. Philbrick and his crew have been painting picnic tables, cabins and toilets at the Down River, Portage Lake, Sewell Hill and Grass Lake fire towers.

CAPT. BATES TALKS ON PHILIPPINES EXPERIENCE

civilization itself, but the influence of the church and religion. Democracy has been destroyed in all but two of the large countries of Europe, and the church as an institution is seriously threatened. The Christian interpretation of life is being challenged by the new paganism presented by materialism, false nationalism, Nazism, Fascism, and the worst aspects of communism.

The conference at Oxford was an attempt to meet the challenge of many anti-Christian elements. The delegates were outstanding leaders, including distinguished scholars, teachers, churchmen. They came with wide experience, ripened knowledge, and deep consecration. They spent the days together at Oxford, studying the problems before them and endeavoring to arrive at conclusions as to solutions and their application.

The delegates were divided into five groups, each group to make a concentrated study of its particular subject. The five subjects studied were: "Church and Community", "Church and State", "Church and the Economic Order", "Church, Community and State in Relation to Education", "The Ecumenical Church and the World of Nations".

These are all vital themes. What is the relation, for instance, of the church and the state? Where does the authority of the one begin and end? This question is acute and is crying for an answer in many places in the world, especially in Italy, Germany, Spain, Russia, and Mexico. At the present time many religious leaders of Germany are in prison, because they have refused to bow to the authority of the totalitarian state as expressed by Hitler. The conference tried to formulate principles and methods which would serve as a guide in the conflict between church and state.

Throughout the world at present Christians are seriously wondering about the relation of the church to the economic order. How can the Christian principle of cooperation be made to work in an economic order based upon competition? What word has the church to speak about the conflict between capital and labor between the profit and the service motives? The Christian religion places a supreme value upon human values. What is religion to say, then, when human values are made secondary to property values? These are some of the questions which the delegates in the group on "Church and the Economic Order" faced.

It is Further Ordered, That public notice thereof be given by publication of a copy of this order, for three successive weeks previous to said day of hearing, in the Crawford Avalanche, a newspaper printed and circulated in said county.

THE HEART IN MIDDLE LIFE

As middle age approaches, most people begin to take stock of their health, and fear of heart disease becomes a source of worry.

One of the most common conditions leading to circulatory disturbances in early middle life is eating too much, producing a marked increase in weight. The tremendous hazards of obesity in relation to the general health in middle life have been stressed frequently. Overweight alone undoubtedly contributes very widely to the increasing death rate from heart disease.

Another cause of heart disease is local infections. Abscessed teeth, tonsillar disease, gall bladder and prostatic infection have a general influence on the body in which the heart is usually involved. The body suffers from these unhealthy areas and the vital organs responsible for the circulation of the blood are impaired. Oftentimes this is the only source of trouble found in heart failure at this period of life.

Mental and physical fatigue and the constant strain of worry also affect the circulatory apparatus. The stress of modern living deprives the middle-aged person of the leisure necessary to maintain health. Haste and worry tend to bring on old age quickly. Nature provides a certain rhythm, including day and night, winter and summer, rest and sleep. The human herd, however, disregards this orderly provision to its disadvantage.

The value of regular physical exercise is a much debated subject, but the continued use of the muscles of the body at definite favorable intervals, in the absence of disease, contribute immensely to the reserve power of the circulatory system. It is a lack of reserve power which tends to bring on heart failure in the elderly person. The organ has tremendous powers of compensation and will maintain its load under great difficulty, but symptoms will appear in time if it is constantly overtaxed.

An early symptom of circulatory disturbance is shortness of breath upon ordinary exertion. Another in pain or a sensation of tightness in the chest, and sometimes swelling of the feet in the evening. These symptoms are not always present in heart disease and their presence does not necessarily indicate weakness of that organ, but they always are of sufficient importance to warrant investigation.

The electrocardiogram and the X-ray, together with a physical examination, usually will reveal the earliest signs of heart disease. Remember that the heart is a part of the body, sharing its fatigue, its local infections, its labor and its rest. It is often a part of the family inheritance sharing the weakness and strength of previous generations. Its care therefore is a part of the general problem of maintaining the health and these four factors of obesity, local infection, fatigue and exercise should be particularly guarded.

Claude Wilson, Wheatland township, Hillsdale county, and the cyclone which struck there June 20, 1937 did this damage. This wreck was caused by flying boards and timber from a house across and about 20 rods down the road, belonging to a neighbor, and which was totally destroyed by this windstorm. Mr. Wilson's barn was also completely destroyed besides considerable other damage was done. This company promptly paid the loss as follows, $1000 on house, $1800 on barn, $183.33 on silo, $75 on windmill, $25 on furniture, $30 on livestock, $124 on farm tools, $56 on hay and grain and $189 other damage.
